

Board of Governors Queen Margaret's School

Mary DeLury, Chair

Mary is an entrepreneur and a Professional Forester who owns a local logging company with her husband. Mary attended Simon Fraser University where she obtained a Bachelor of Science degree and then after some time working in the forest industry, earned a Bachelor of Science in Forestry from the University of British Columbia. Mary has worked in the forest industry for over 25 years and attributes much of the foundation for her strong leadership and business understanding to the many years she spent as a tree-planter and a tree-planting supervisor. She started her first business in 1998 and has had successful businesses ever since.

Mary's 2 youngest sons currently attend QMS and as a family they are very involved in the QMS community. Mary and her family love the outdoors and have a passion for learning.

Mary has served on the Board since 2015 and she brings energy, leadership and curiosity to the Board.

Why QMS?

I have a passion for learning and I want to help allow children to express themselves authentically and effectively in the ever-changing and unknown world we live in today. I believe that QMS is an outstanding school that helps our youth do just that. I continue to enthusiastically support the school year after year because of the nurturing and academically exceptional experience that the children receive.

Bruce Munro, Treasurer

Bruce holds a Bachelor of Commerce degree from the University of Alberta. Bruce was born and raised on Vancouver Island and now resides in the Cowichan Valley with his wife and their three children who attend QMS.

After his business education, Bruce returned to Vancouver Island and began his professional career in Nanaimo. For the past 17 years, he has helped structure, finance, build and manage senior and family rental housing, grow a small promotional marketing business and became the second-generation president of the family-owned drilling and blasting business.

Bruce is a strong supporter of the outdoors, Vancouver Island, and is a volunteer youth soccer coach in the Cowichan Valley.

Why QMS?

I am extremely happy and proud to lend my support and energy to QMS. I often refer to QMS as a "hidden jewel" because of the faculty's unparalleled care and attentiveness to student success, the QMS devotion to balanced academic rigor, and the sense of community within QMS. QMS is a fantastic option for parents who want a very special educational experience for their children, and being part of this exceptional learning environment is a highlight for me. We are all learners.

Alison Taylor, Secretary

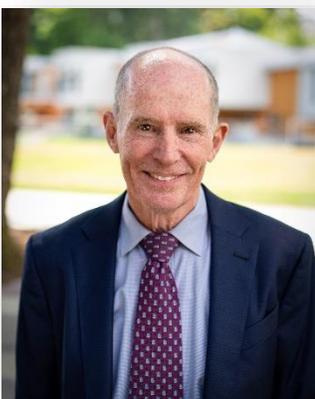

Alison is a partner at Taylor Pelton, a Cowichan Valley law firm. Alison holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of British Columbia and a Bachelor of Laws degree from Queen’s University. She has been practicing law since 2005.

While at UBC, Alison played varsity field hockey, winning two Canada West titles and three national championship titles. Always up for an adventure, Alison has completed several marathons, including Boston and New York, she has summited Mount Kilimanjaro, completed Ironman Canada and skied off piste in the Monashees and the Alps.

Alison served as the chair of the Cowichan District Hospital Foundation from 2014–2020. During this time, the Foundation raised over $9 million to improve health care services at the Cowichan District Hospital.

Why QMS?

The QMS community has given so much to my children in a relatively short period of time. I am hopeful that I will be able to make a meaningful contribution to this community through service on the Board of Governors.

John Allpress, Governor

John Allpress is a resident of the Cowichan Valley, having recently retired from a 38 year career at Brentwood College. He wore many hats while at Brentwood as a house parent, teacher, Director of rugby and rowing, Head of the Mathematics Department, Director of Admissions and as Deputy Head and Director of Advancement. Brentwood experienced unprecedented growth during his tenure in Advancement and he was instrumental in securing donations that led to the construction of the Health Centre, Performing Arts Centre, Dining Hall, Centre for Arts and Humanities, Athletic Centre, as well as the construction of two boarding residences. John is volunteering time to assist QMS in creating a more robust advancement platform. He believes that a position on the Board provides the close connection with the leadership of QMS that will facilitate this role.

Roger Hart, Governor

Roger Hart has a strong background as an educator, professional engineer and a management consultant.

Roger was a tenured university professor in the U.K. where, in addition to teaching and research, his responsibilities included helping assess applicants into the university's graduate and undergraduate schools.

After coming to Canada as a visiting professor he became a senior administrator at a new college where he was responsible for university transfer with BC universities and pioneered the concept of "dual registration" with an Alberta university.

His relationship with the British Open University and his deep technical background in telecommunications and IT encouraged him to move into consulting. He worked for many school districts, large and small, universities and colleges, as well as the BC Ministry of Education.

His other clients at the time also included the Federal Department of Communications, the Commonwealth Secretariat in London, the Government of Jordan and the Department of Communications in the Philippines.

In 1997 his firm merged with one of the then "Big Six" global consulting firms where his clients included Siemens in Germany, SKT Group in Korea, the World Bank in Thailand and a number of global Fortune 500 clients in the U.S.

His wife, Sally, is the Indigenous Perspectives teacher at QMS and a Ph.D. candidate at SFU. They are both frequent visitors to the QMS campus where their diverse backgrounds allow them to fully appreciate what a rare gem the Cowichan Valley, B.C. and Canada have in QMS.

Why QMS?

As educators, Roger and his wife Sally were delighted that they were able to enrol their two grandchildren in QMS. Their grandson was struggling in his local elementary school, but both he and his sister have flourished in Queen Margaret's rich, varied and rigorous academic environment and caring community where he was one of the first boys to enter Senior School in recent years.

Denise MacDonald, Governor

Denise is a Coordinator with Scheduling Services Duncan for Island Health. Denise holds a Recreational Leadership Certificate and an Associate Degree in Criminal Justice, however found her passion in the healthcare field.

Denise was born and raised in the Cowichan Valley and is an Alumni of QMS having attended from 1986 to graduation in 1992. Denise is looking to support the traditions and heritage that QMS has and the programs that make it strong.

Denise has two daughters attending QMS in the Senior School, Charlie R ('22) and Loryn R ('24), following in their mother and aunt's ('88) footsteps.

Denise leads a fairly active life with her family as they enjoy the outdoors through camping and fishing. When at home, Denise enjoys her garden and entertaining her friends.

Why QMS?

I am extremely proud of QMS and the individual that it has helped me become. QMS taught me to be respectful of all people, appreciate what they have to offer, and to be thankful for their friendship. QMS taught me to think for myself, respect myself, and stand-up for what you believe in. These are attributes that I have passed on to my daughters and was proud to have the opportunity to have them attend QMS so they themselves also receive these values. Beyond All Dreams notes that anything is possible if you look to the future.

Luke Mills, Governor

Luke was born and raised in Toronto, Ontario and graduated from Bishop's University in Lennoxville, Quebec. After a five-year adventure in the Caribbean, Luke and his wife, Anne, moved to Vancouver Island in 2001.

Luke joined Megson FitzPatrick Insurance, a Victoria-based property and casualty insurance brokerage, in 2002, and was invited into partnership in 2008. For the past 16 years, Luke has helped design and deliver insurance and risk management programs for businesses and not-for-profit organizations across British Columbia, including several independent schools.

Luke loves the outdoors and is a volunteer and supporter of "Power to Be," a non-profit organization that empowers people to explore their abilities through inclusive nature adventures.

Why QMS?

When I was asked to consider joining the QMS Board of Governors I was intrigued. When I met the board and staff, toured the campus and learned more about the School's rich history and bold vision for the future, I was in! I quickly discovered that QMS is more than a learning institution, it's an entire community committed to helping young people become their best selves. It's an exciting time as QMS charts a new strategic path and I am honoured to contribute to, and learn from, this amazing community.

Tyler Vanderputten, Governor

Tyler grew up in Calgary, Alberta. He earned a Bachelor of Science in Chemistry in 2001 from University of Victoria and after trying on a few hats, he taught in the university's laboratory program and developed pharmaceutical drugs as a medicinal chemist in San Francisco. His love for conversation and people took him back to Alberta from the bench to the sales world. There he spent much of his career working with VWR International and Thermo Fisher Scientific. He also completed an MBA in 2009 in Calgary before moving to Vancouver Island in 2010 working most recently with GE Healthcare until 2012.

In 2012, Tyler decided to leave the workforce and has been a full-time stay-at-home Dad to his 3 children for the last 9 years. He has enjoyed supporting his wife's thriving surgical career. In all their busyness, the entire family loves exploring the great outdoors through swimming, skiing, hiking and travelling.

When Tyler's not with his children and his wife, you will often find him playing piano or pursuing his new hobby exploring the local mountains on his mountain bike. He also has a lifelong passion for basketball and coaching, which he gets to enjoy with QMS students.

Why QMS?

Tyler and his family moved to the Cowichan Valley in 2017, a move influenced by Queen Margaret's School's reputation. With small class sizes and quality teaching, Tyler was drawn to the school's familial atmosphere. An extreme extrovert, Tyler sought to support the school however he possibly could. QMS became a home and family not only for his 3 children, but for himself as well.
